Hope of New England Bows to Comparative Unknown in Amateur Meet; British Title Holder Wins and Must Face Bobby Jones To-day

By Grantland Rice

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21 .- Tall oaks of golf fell with a resounding crash day, and with the fairway deserted the echo still booms along Missouri

Francis Ouimet, the hope of New England, was the first stately figure fall, cudgeled out by the youth and power of the West. It fell to the France practically unnoticed, in strikat of Harrison Johnston, the far-hitting Minnesota champion, to overnt Bostonian on the final green, when Ouimet's three-foot met for a half skidded gently by the cup and stopped just an inch beyond.
